Year 4 Quarter 2

The Environment

Restoring Traditional Boundaries

This has been a great summer of walling! After the success of our first beginners' course in June we ran a second in August, followed by a supervised 'week of walling' in September, all at Martholme Greenway. In total we restored over 35m of wall this quarter, to a very good standard thanks to the support given by Alan Rhodes and Persy Jeyacheya of the Dry Stone Walling Association. The work was so well regarded by the landowner, Fort Vale engineering company, that they responded to a request for financial support for future work by sending a cheque for £5000 to the community group who manage the Greenway.

We also ran a level 1 certified course at Pendleside farm, for 10 volunteers to learn from master craftsman Phil Dolphin. The participants spent 10 days over 5 weeks, learning the skills and practising building another 50m of wall. 5 of the volunteers decided to take the test and all passed the level 1 exam. At least three of the volunteers intend to use the skills in their future careers.

We have also commissioned Catapult Films to document our boundaries project, and Mark Currie has now produced two short films this summer which we have shared on social media.

Restoring Wildlife and Priority Habitats

Pendle Meadows

Monitoring of all the meadow sites was completed in July. The results of these surveys were compared to the lists of species added during the summer of 2020 to see how the sites were progressing. Additional site specific seeding lists were then prepared, and seeds were sown in September after the sites had been cut and cleared.

450 wild flower plug plants were also purchased for addition to specific sites later in September. The meadow sites at Spring Wood and Barley were mown and cleared on PHLP volunteer days using scythes and rakes. The meadow at Clarion House was managed in the same way by the Friends of Clarion House group. It has been really gratifying to see how the Friends group have taken ownership of the meadow restoration work.

All of the sites have shown an improvement in species richness during the project and those on farm sites will be in a better condition in order to enter into future agri-environment schemes.

The project will be completed with the production of site specific reports detailing progress and setting out next steps for continued restoration management.

Bioblitz 2021 - The Big Wildlife Count at Spring Wood.

The i-Naturalist project 'Species of Spring Wood, Whalley' began with a baseline of 32 observations and 25 species recorded by 8 observers. With the additional events this quarter, together with continued observations by volunteers and visitors, the count has now reached:

679 observations of 266 species by 26 observers.

Three events were held in Q2: a tree ID walk, a visit from Simonstone Environment Group and a bat walk in early September.

Creating and Managing Woodlands

Woodland Maintenance work has started at Rimington. Scheme maintenance and management has also taken place at Whins House this summer providing a further 5.4Ha towards woodland management targets.

Woodland creation sites lined up for this winter's planting include Whins House and Cockshotts Farm in Sabden, where fencing is due to start, Morans Farm where fencing, being carried out by volunteers, has started, Sandyford where we are awaiting confirmation of funding, and two smaller sites on the Downham Estate which are ready for planting.

Invasive Non-Native Species Removal (INNS) activities have been carried out by Ribble Trust volunteers who have tackled Himalayan balsam removal in the Rimington area over the summer.

The Economy

Enhancing Visitor Gateways and key routes to Access Heritage

At the time of writing we are poised to break ground on the next phase of the tramper route at Churn Clough in Sabden. Phase one was the 'cow track' near to Cockshotts farm and the lower link of the route. Now we will begin the longer phase and bigger loop from the reservoir linking back to the bridleways and on to Sabden.

Resilience work on paths on the hill itself is ongoing, with some work complete and some about to start. Field and Fell have completed the reprofiling of the badly eroded path heading toward Ogden Clough, and after a short break whilst waiting for materials to be delivered, the kissing gate to replace the badly rotten ladder style will be installed by the time this report is submitted.

The track after resilience work, showing the repaired surface and profile

Conservefor have completed their work to improve the longevity of the zig zag path leading to the cart track on Pendle Hill with some geo-jute pegged to stabilise the ground. This has also been re-seeded and fenced off to give it the best chance of a rest and destabilisation until the vegetation regrows and ties the ground together.

Again, by the time this report is submitted the flagged path at Pendleside will have been completed. Delays have been because of delivery issues, supply issues, not to mention a long-distance haulage.

The new flag path being installed at the foot of Pendle, aiming to create a more resilient path for walkers

The plans for the refurbishment of Spring Wood Information Centre are still ongoing. Designs have been finalised with the project group from Lancashire County Council ready to take plans to the planning application stage and tendering to follow. A date for construction is yet to be set, but it is hoped to be decided in the coming weeks. See additional report to be submitted.

This quarter brings to an end the position of the Access for All graduate trainee, an invaluable part of the Pendle Hill Team. We (I) will be very sad to see him move on to pastures new because its thanks to his diligence and dedication that we have been able to make so much progress despite all the world and his wife has had to throw at us over the last 18 months. His willingness to adapt to complicated and sometimes contentious situations has not only allowed projects to be adapted and remodelled to a successful conclusion but also, I hope, shown him that even though everything doesn't always go the way we think it will, things can come good in the end.

Offering Apprenticeships

Now we are half-way through the 4th year of the scheme, some of the apprentices are nearing the end of their placements. Pleasingly, two of our graduate trainees, Dom and Leanne have been successful in gaining positions with their host organisations, namely the AONB and Ribble Rivers Trust. Matt has successfully completed his first two years of his graduate apprenticeship, and will complete his final year with continued support from his employer, Gazegill Organics. Jenna and Charlotte continue to do well at Pendle Heritage Centre, whilst Emma is on maternity leave.

This summer we have worked with Nick Farrimond who is a filmmaker, to produce a series of six short films profiling people who work locally in careers that are 'Working out of the Ordinary' ie in lesser known fields including the creative sector, youth and community work and environmental careers. You can view these here Working Out Of The Ordinary: Season 1 These will be launched in early November and we are currently networking with careers advisers and teachers to ensure they reach the young people who we want to inspire.

Sense of Place and Sustainable Tourism

Over the summer months we ran 4 walk leader training workshops to support those individuals who wanted to gain the confidence and the knowledge to lead and support walks in their community. During the Covid lockdowns with the increased uptake in walking, many informal walking groups have developed, so it was an opportunity to provide the skills for those wanting to take this further. No formal qualification was given, but the training which was delivered by one of our volunteer qualified walk leaders, followed the Ramblers 'Health Walks' training format. 20 volunteers attended the training over the 4 sessions, and several went on to support our New to Walking Festival that followed in September.

Walk Leader Training feedback:

'I enjoyed the walk leader training today with Nick. Please could I volunteer to be a back marker for the festival in September.'

'Big thank you for today's training, found it really informative, it was also great to talk and meet to so many like-minded people too. If anyone in the group needs support on any walks etc I'm more than willing to help /support if I'm available'

'Thank you for organising the training today. I really enjoyed the course and it was great to have a mixture of both theory and application.'

'Thanks for today, it was really useful for me to cover old ground and see what I still know. Apart from risk assessments everything seems intact. If I can be of any use as a back-up or tail end for your walking festival, please feel free to get in touch.'

We ran our 'New to Walking Festival – Together for our Landmark' from 18th to 26th September. The Festival was delivered as a post Covid response, to further extend people's interest in 'walking from home'.

Quarterly Report

The programme of guided walks were aimed to encourage people to continue with the regular walks they already enjoyed and to develop their confidence to explore new walks in the Pendle Hill Landscape Partnership area. It was also an opportunity to inspire those new audiences by providing thematic walks for people to learn about and connect to the natural and cultural heritage of the area.

Over the course of the 9 days we ran 15 walks, all led and supported by local volunteers, guides, experts and members of the LP team. The varied programme was well received, and ranged from archaeology to herbal medicine, mindfulness to traditional boundaries and buggy-friendly walks. The festival was fully booked (15 bookings on each event – purposely kept small due to Covid guidelines), but there were a number of people who cancelled or who didn't turn up on the day, so around 180 participated overall. Following an online evaluation we received some excellent feedback:

'Just a quick thank you for arranging these walks, the ones I attended were all interesting in their own way and always with beautiful photogenic scenery. The guides and helpers all did a brilliant job leading us and giving historical insights.'

'Thank you so much for today. I can honestly say it was a life changing experience. It tied together so many thoughts I've had about using the outdoors as a healing place.'

'I always find the events organised by Pendle Hill partnership imaginative and well organised. I look forward to attending them through the seasons.'

Commissioning Research into the value the landscape offers to the economy and community services

This project is now closed, however this quarter we have secured some good publicity for 72 Seasons via our PR contract with Cause UK (coverage in Lancashire Magazine); and the academics who carried out our Pen Farm study have written a paper for publication in 'Land Use Policy'

Everyone

Running a Community Grant Scheme

In August we awarded the final Pendle Hill Fund grants and are now closed to any further applications.

The grants panel decided to offer grants to Burnley Youth Theatre: £4000 towards Pendle Pioneers, a project which aims to work with primary school children to explore stories of local historic figures, with support from the Pendle Radicals project. A grant of £4000 was also offered to Breaking Cycles CIC towards their research into local bridleways, which will encourage safe and respectful mountain biking on bridleways and byways rather than footpaths. This project will also be supported by our Access for All and Interpretation projects

We have now received final claims and a completion report from a Year 3 project Rimington Heritage Trail. This project finished with a launch and a guided walk around the trail in August, which had a great turn out from the local village and the applicants continue to receive great feedback about the trail and the practical infrastructure developments. Other projects are continuing with their work and aims.

We have also closed the delegated small grants scheme. This is currently supporting the Ribble Valley Archaeology Group, and also Wiswell Parish Council, who have completed a small project which involved the restoration of a local historic well and engaging the village community in the heritage information.

The restored historic well at Wiswell

Providing Supported Activity Sessions for people dealing with mental health issues and social isolation

From Thursday 1st July we started a new block of PEN activity, which included the services of Little Green Bus offering a free pick up and drop off. Over this quarter we have offered 11 Thursday PEN sessions with a range of activity including conservation projects, learning more about different species of plants and animals, a visit to an archaeology excavation site, dry stone walling and cooking on a campfire. These sessions have been relatively well attended however the bus service has not been utilised as much as it was before Covid.

Quarterly Report

Monday afternoon walks have also continued, and these tend to be still well attended by regular, as well as new participants. We continue to utilise areas around the Landscape Partnership, as well as within, for these walks to introduce people to local walks that they might feel comfortable doing again by themselves or with friends/family.

The PEN group enjoying the Pendle Meadow at Cockshutts Farm

Jayne still continues to distribute the 'Let's Get Walking', 'Connecting to Nature' and 'Keeping Nature in Mind' booklets to a variety of different audience groups and individuals. Networking with local groups continues, and some recent participants from PEN have been young people from a project based in Pendle called Yes Hub. This project has been set up to help Young People who have been affected by Covid and aims to provide activities and training opportunities.

Recently Nick Alderson, the Rural Development and Community project officer for Community Prevention and Engagement team has taken on a new role and will be leaving this NHS service. Nick has been offered the centre manager role at Colne Open Door Centre. Open Door offers a range of support, group sessions and wellbeing courses and wants to increase its mental health and wellbeing offer. Over the next few weeks we will be discussing options for PEN, but since Nick was the primary link to CPET, we hope that Open Door will become a new partner with this project.

Creatively Engaging People in our Radical History

This has been a very busy and exciting quarter for Pendle Radicals, with a return to public-facing activity after a long hiatus.

For our first public activity, back in July, we welcomed the award-winning Norwich women's project Rosie's Plaques, for a very happy and fulfilling weekend residency with Radicals volunteers at Clarion House. A short film we commissioned from Huckleberry Films captures the spirit of the weekend. Thanks to the PR team of Cause UK, this brilliant project also produced a full page feature in the Guardian, our second in two months, this one linked to all our multi-faceted work on Ethel Carnie Holdsworth.

In August we welcomed further illustrious visitors, the production team for BBC1's Songs of Praise, who spent a full day filming at the summit and the Inghamite Church. They shaped a full episode around Pendle Radicals and the Radicals Trail, giving us the programme title and some very evocative filming of the hill on a scorching, summer day. We tied the filming in to the installation of the stone panel at the Inghamite Church, and have also installed the ground-based panel at Clarion House, with some very effective planting of Alpines to surround it.

September was extremely busy as the world returned to public activity. On the 19th, the annual pilgrimage named Clarion Sunday, we welcomed 150 cyclists to Clarion House from Clarion clubs across the north of England. Our marquee featured a pop-up photo studio, where the artist Alan Ward took formal portraits of 90+ individual riders, and sent them home with a souvenir cycle bag of Clarion and Radicals memorabilia. The national secretary said the day had been the busiest and most successful for some years.

Community Archaeology

Ribble Valley Archaeology Group is a new local group, set up initially to continue exploration of a section of Roman Road through Rimington. The group has continued with its' activity and hopes to now advertise the group wider for new members to join. Jayne continues to support the group as much as possible.

We have just offered Jessica Wight a freelance role with the project as a part time community archaeologist. She will work equivalent of 1 day a week over the next 6 months and her primary aims will be to support local archaeology volunteers by hosting walks or survey days, research key local areas and look at increasing the engagement for 16 – 25 year olds. Jessica is an archaeology graduate with museums work experience.

Roman Road Excavation Project

Between 27th September and 8th October, NAA delivered a 2 week excavation along a section of Roman road on the boundary of Clitheroe and Worston, on land belonging to Hanson Cement.

The weather in the first work was particularly wet and rainy, which caused some issues for access to site and the archaeologists were stood down one of the 10 days. However, part of a Roman road was definitely uncovered, and a few more questions were made. We await the final report.

The excavation involved 4 days of volunteer activity, plus 2 group visits to site. The volunteers were able to assist with the excavation and learn more about the process from the NAA professionals. We also delivered 2 days of volunteer activity before the excavation, to survey a section further along the Roman road.

Threads

Supporting Volunteering and Learning opportunities across the scheme

Get into volunteering

We have delivered a series of Lancashire Police Cadet sessions for the Pendle, Burnley and Ribble Valley and Hyndburn units:

Pendle Cadets came out to help us clear the water-bars on the cart track up the hill, and then helped us build an insect hotel at Victoria Park in Nelson

Ribble Valley and Hyndburn and Burnley cadets helped with a series of balsam pulling sessions planned by the Readstone Environment Group. I hope that these connections between local groups will build year on year.

We had also planned a dry stone wall taster day with Nightsafe, a group from Blackburn, however they had a Covid outbreak and so had to cancel.

Volunteering

Pendle Hill Volunteers have been meeting 3 times a month throughout the summer. In July our focus was on Himalayan balsam removal and they also helped clear and prepare raised beds at Hollins. In September they have been helping with meadow management at Spring Wood and Barley Wildlife Site.

We organised our second Outdoor First Aid course this year, led by Lancashire First Aid for 12 LP staff, volunteers and partners. We also delivered a series of Principles of Navigation Training in partnership with Dan, a volunteer from the local Rossendale and Pendle Mountain Rescue. Two sessions were for members of the public, and we also delivered 4 sessions to local Lancashire Police Cadet leaders and co-ordinators. This was very well received, and we hope that a lot of this information will be passed to Police Cadets, as well as friends and family.

Training for volunteers has included Outdoor First Aid and Navigation Skills

Two new outdoor learning assistant volunteers have been recruited, who plan to start volunteering in October. One 2021 volunteer has recently been employed with the Royal Forestry Society on Harewood House estate in Yorkshire. While another regular volunteer is completing her Forest School Level 3 and using Little Sapling sessions to fine tune her skills.

Informal outdoor learning

During the school summer holidays, we delivered 10 Family Nature events across Pendle and the Ribble Valley. All events were well attended and appreciated after a year's pause due to Covid. The themes ranged from minibeast hunting with Ribble Rivers Trust, to archaeology sessions, plus landscape walks and learning more about traditional boundaries using DSWA resources.

Family Landscape Walk along the canal at Barrowford

We also delivered a John Muir Award celebration event, for the families who undertook the discovery award last year. Seven of the families came and shared their experiences of what they had enjoyed and learnt. During the event, families learnt how to use the compass they had been given on completion of the award. The children also took part in building a dry stone wall, minibeast hunting and a landscape walk. Families commented that they had really benefited from the 2020 experience, and now took more notice in nature on their doorstep. One child had made a pond in the family back garden and has since learnt more about bees and taken part in a CBBC show about beekeeping.

The ECT Outdoor Learning Officer took part in the summer delivery of the government-funded HAF (holiday activities and food) programme, to provide healthy food and enriching activities to disadvantaged children. Through linking up with Pendle Borough council and Burnley council, seven HAF sessions were delivered in partnership with Whitehough Outdoor Centre. The centre staff provided the lunch and we delivered nature connection activities and wild play sessions (such as pond dipping, minibeast hunting, bird feeders creation, wildflower planting and raft building). The participating groups consisted of summer holiday club providers, sport enrichment organisations and childrens services groups. Overall, 96 children took part and all adults remarked how valuable the outdoor opportunity was, especially for those who don't get a holiday or experience the countryside. "What a fab day some of our children had at Whitehough Outdoor Activity on Friday! Pond dipping, making bird feeders for our Forest School Area at the club, lots of team building and fun" said staff at a summer holiday club in Pendle. Filming took place for the Pendle and Burnley HAF report, these films are currently being edited and should be ready next month.

Little Saplings mini sessions continued until the summer holidays, with all the sessions being fully booked. Then, on 8th September, Little Saplings returned in its original 1.5 hour format. Advertisement consisted of the three information films, a 2021 poster and a press release. Sessions are now fully booked into October. Parents voiced how thankful they were to have this fully funded opportunity and that it had been much missed. Volunteers have enjoyed being back working with the toddlers and their parents/carers, especially learning how to light fire and deliver sessions using the Forest school ethos.

Little Saplings participants toasting marshmallows and building birds nests

Formal outdoor learning in schools

Five more school trips took place in the summer term and three so far in the new academic year.

Christ Church primary school have been taking advantage of Ball Grove Park opposite their school in Colne. Through discussions with the head teacher and teaching staff, a strategy has been developed to upskill teachers in local geography knowledge, plants and soils, outdoor curriculum links and minibeast hunting skills. So far class teachers from Year 1, 3, 4 and 5 have been trained by Alison, with the class pupils participating in the lesson plan activities. Teachers have learnt how to teach river studies in the park, developed their map and compass skills and seen the endless possibilities in taking the national curriculum outside. Each class teacher and the Bursar, now have the knowledge and information about how to book the park with Pendle Borough Council, complete the correct permission forms and provide adequate risk assessments.

Other school trips that took place in July include trips to Gazegill organic farm with West Street primary who were studying 'Charlotte's Web', and therefore found the trip really brought the book to life.

Ightenhill school, studying local geography and history went on a trip to Pendle Sculpture Trail with both year 5 classes in July, after originally being planned for Spring 2020. The class teachers plans to repeat this trip with all the resources next year. They now feel fully prepared for the trip, who to contact to confirm the visit to the site and how to fit the art installation around the witches story and local history.

Wheatley Lane primary was keen to use a local site to deliver their river studies session, instead of paying for a trip in Burnley. The year 4 class teacher brought her class to Barley, where Alison demonstrated how to teach map and compass skills, and river studies. Year 4 teacher stated " The visit showed how easy it would be for us to be able to deliver this by ourselves as little equipment was needed particularly for the river studies part. Hopefully, next year, we can do it ourselves."

Holding the Gatherings and annual events to engage new audiences

Long overdue, Isabella Martin finally managed to return to Pendle in September to attend the Annual Gathering and premier the outcome of her Traditional Boundaries Residency: Outlines. The film combines stop motion animation, text and field recording to create Outlines, a film that tells an abstract story of the physical presence and processes involved in traditional dry stone walling. Outlines is a beautifully put together film which follows four narrators: a walker, a farmer, a waller and a stone. Across their four voices, we are guided through perspectives on boundaries. Isabella offers shifting perspectives on the habitat, regulation, imposition, resilience and spectacle of the traditional boundaries.

Alongside an original animation created by Isabella is a soundscape provided by local sound artist Jo Kennedy. Jo collected field recordings across Pendle, which were stitched together to soundtrack the film. This soundtrack emphasises Pendle's sense of place and provides an engaging array of sounds from wild birds to hiker's footsteps.

The official premier of Outlines was at the Annual Gathering, where it was well received by the audience. The film is now also situated on the In-situ website for people to enjoy wherever they are.

<https://www.in-situ.org.uk/isabella-martin> Additionally, we did a pop-up film screening inside Corky, our mobile hut on Pendle Hill. We perched Corky alongside some drystone walling restoration work being carried out by volunteers and had a successful day with over 50 passers-by enter Corky and sit to enjoy the film. We will continue to make plans to share the film in the coming months with new audiences.

A still from Isabella's film: Outlines

The Summit came to its official end this quarter, marked with a sharing event on 21st August. This event showcased the artistic outcomes of the project: two films including a collaborative spoken word piece, a mapped projection and head sculpture, a table of small sculptures, a collage, written texts and poems. Almost all of the participants spoke publicly at the event, which was well attended by friends and family.

Quarterly Report

The event also showed the personal growth of participants, many of whom had never spoken publicly or made strong friendships with other young people their age. They are now a collective of young artists.

One participant's parent noted: "I couldn't imagine her doing that six months ago, it's almost like she's been an egg and this project's really helped hatch her, it's really helped her open up." A participant noted: "This project has been one of the best ever...doing things you love...you are free to be whoever you want here." These comments indicate the success and growth each participant has felt.

A highlight of the project this quarter was our residential stay at Whitehough Outdoor Centre. Over three days, Remodel Manchester (Chloe Barlow, Chris Charles and Josh Wilkinson) alongside James of More Music, helped the young people develop their creative skills and pull together all of their ideas from across the project. Great fun was had by all, as we made music, films, photographs, collages and sculptures. We also took part in the outdoor activities including tree climbing at the high ropes.

The Summit young people, artists and helpers at Whitehough Outdoor Centre during their residential trip

Overall, 12 young people have stuck with the project from beginning to end and each has vocalised the importance of this project and desire to keep working with In-Situ and each other. Over the next few months, we will be collating and submitting their arts awards, and we are confident each of these young people will achieve their Bronze Arts Award. We are also keen to continue to provide exciting and engaging opportunities for the young people to continue with creative passions.

The Peat Residency has got back on track this quarter, and we are working to source a manufacturer for the Pendle Peat Pie, and are currently in conversations with local manufacturers Pie Heroes, having a manufacture on board will enable the pie to have a wider reach and be served in a range of settings. We are extremely excited that the Peat Pie will be shipped up to Glasgow for COP26 as part of a fringe event where 100 of the pies will be served. This is a huge step for the project towards achieving a reputation for the pie beyond Pendle and on a National (and even International) scale.

The Peat Pie has begun to attract media attention, as this quarter both Marketing Lancashire and Burnley Express have published articles about the Peat Pie and its upcoming presence at COP26. Cause-UK also negotiated a short film about the pie to be produced and distributed by the Press Association in early October

This quarter, activist and creative Frankie Turk was contracted to design and produce a pamphlet to be handed out alongside the pie. The pamphlet tells the story of the pie, its origin and purpose. It also features the recipe, so that people can make their own.

Kerry has now completed the tote-bag project as part of the residency. This was socially engaged art work that popped-up, inviting passers-by to stitch together a tote bag with fabric from coir logs (used for peat restoration) and have a chat with Kerry. The tote bags were then filled with seeds, ready to be handed out on the base of Pendle Hill to the public, taken to the top and emptied as part of the seeding event on 25th September. This raised awareness to the issues of Peat loss locally and created a direct way for over 200 local people to directly restore peat on the hill. The event was created as an artistic performance and was filmed by artist Luca Rudlin to create a legacy of the event. This film will be screened at the final Peat Symposium planned for November.

Last quarter, we published Reconnect and began distributing it across Pendle. Reconnect offers an inclusive opportunity for people, with or without access to personal digital devices and internet, to get involved with our programme and to be creative. A digitised extract now exists on the PHLP website, alongside YouTube tutorials that demonstrate three of the eight activities.

So far, we have placed a total of 852 copies of Reconnect into people's hands. This includes: 60 copies provided to the Brierfield Children's Allotment, 75 to the Children and Family Wellbeing Service, 10 to Go Out (an LGBT+ walking group), 48 to Colne Open Door Centre and 120 to schools in Pendle. We are happy with this roll out and anticipate receiving feedback from participants in the upcoming weeks.

539 copies have been handed out via the Corky Summer Hut Tour, which is a positive reflection on the success of these events, showing the extensive outreach we have achieved with these events.

Across 5 events this Summer, Corky has hosted artworks made by artists from the Testing Ground residency series and Isabella Martin. We are happy to have reached over 200 passers-by who became participants and audience at the events. At two of the hut tour stops, artist Bethany White led a series of successful 'co-creating with nature' workshops. Through the medium of cyanotype, Bethany's workshops appealed to participants young and old as people were able to make their own artwork and take it home with them.

We are delighted to have delivered our Annual Gathering. The event, which happened at Pendleton Village Hall, occurred on 15th September and was well attended. Partners, colleagues, collaborators, supporters and volunteers all showed their support for the project on what was a celebratory event for everyone to enjoy. In line with Covid precautions, we decided to keep this event to an invite-only basis.

Each of the PHLP partners hosted a display that summarised their outcomes and activity/research. We also pulled together a film reel that featured some fantastic interpretation films provided by Huckleberry Films and Nick Farrimond. In-Situ showed the work of all eight Testing Ground artists, as well as premiering Isabella Martin's film Outlines. We also provided copies of Reconnect and had participants of The Summit attend. Ozzy, a young person from Brierfield involved in The Summit, delivered a speech which detailed their experience of the project on behalf of the group.

After 18 months of working digitally, it has been great to be out and about, inviting people to take part in activity and get to know the work of In-Situ and PHLP.

Co-ordinating Interpretation and Publicity

Our work with PR consultancy Cause-UK continues to raise the Scheme's profile nationally in print and digital media. Recent coverage includes a double page spread of the 72 Seasons project in the Lancashire Magazine, as well as the Peat Pie Project being picked up by Lancashire Life magazine and by the Press Association for filming. We await to see where this filming will be distributed, hopefully as a national news story during COP 26 in November.

Peat Pie for COP 26: maker Andrew Dean and artist Kerry Morrison

The interpretation panel for Cockshott's Farm highlighting the farming, wildlife and access opportunities being developed with the LP has been completed and installed. It has been welcomed by the farmer and people who visit to buy raw milk on-site, we hope it will encourage them to explore the farm more on future visits. This also links with the Churn Clough tramper trail.

Two short 'Traditional Boundaries' films have been produced to highlight the importance of boundaries and maintaining and training people in these vital, rural skills. Filming took place and interviewed participants at the Beginners <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=lbTsrhABdM8> and Level 1 Dry Stone Walling Courses <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Z8ezoUYzgQ0> produced by Catapult filming.

Quarterly Report

A series of short films have been produced to highlight the work and opportunities of Little Saplings for pre-school children. Now that sessions are being run once again face to face it was a great way to encourage and welcome families back to nature and the outdoors.

Staffing and Programme Management

As we had predicted, now the scheme is nearing an end we have had some changes within the team.

Sarah Robinson, our part time Farming & Wildlife Officer has now taken up a full time position with the AONB in their new 'Farming in Protected Landscape' team. Sarah was responsible for the Wild About Pendle project which was due to end in March 2022, and she has worked hard to ensure all project sites and activity are completed and reported on prior to her departure: all outputs have been achieved.

Sarah led on our peatland restoration work, which has been very successful, and this too has now been completed on Pendle Hill. Sarah also oversaw the Pendle WINNS and Traditional Boundaries projects and passes this work over to the Scheme Manager.

Sarah's knowledge and experience will be missed by the rest of the team, but we know she is nearby and willing to advise and guide us in biodiversity matters if needed.

As already noted, our Graduate Trainee, Dom Hartley has completed his 2 year placement with the scheme and has been appointed Lancashire Peatlands officer, based with the AONB. This is a real achievement, and we are very proud of him. We are recruiting for our fourth and final LP Graduate Trainee currently and hope to have a new team member in place as soon as possible.

We have also just heard that Helen, our Programme Assistant, who has been on maternity leave for most of this year, will unfortunately not be returning to work with us in January. Nichola, who had been covering for the maternity leave and who has quickly become an essential member of the LP team, will hopefully stay with us now until the end of the scheme.
